Bill, I am sending you this short e-mail with reference to Anne Clark. As we all know the building industry and the associated buyers are challenging in today's world. The buyers are demanding and want everything done on their time schedules, it would be easy to say "our hours are x" and make them conform to our time frames. Anne consistently has a "what ever it takes" attitude towards getting closings done, not to mention that her knowledge/expertise often helps us to make better informed decisions. Not many people take the time to say good things about employees; I do not want to be one of those people. Thank you for having an employee like Anne that puts a positive face to your business.
